Words and Word Formation:

The Nature of the Lexicon

- ▶ Morphology: the component of mental grammar that deals with types of words and how words are formed out of smaller meaningful pieces and other words.
- ▶ What are words?
- ▶ How are words formed?
- ▶ Different words differ in form, meaning, and lexical category.

- Inflectional Affixes

Derived and Inflected Words in the Lexicon

- ▶ In a speaker's mental dictionary, the lexicon, each morpheme is listed individually along with other information such as its meaning, its lexical category (if it is a free morpheme), and rules for how and when it is allowed to attach to stems (if it is a bound morpheme)
- ▶ For some morphological processes in some language, each time a word is used, it is re-formed from the separate entries in the lexicon of the parts that make it up.
- ▶ Not true all languages: Even morphologically complex words can apparently have a separate entry in the adult lexicon. e.g. nonrecyclable
- ▶ Speakers of a language have no problem accessing the patterns in their lexicons and applying them for interpreting unfamiliar words and even for creating them.
 - unsmelly, smellability, smellful
 - stick-to-it-ive-ness

Alternations: morpheme-internal modification

(17) Although the usual pattern of plural formation is to add an inflectional morpheme, some English plurals make an internal modification:

ma n	me n	[æ]	~	[ɛ] ([æ] alternates with [ɛ] in these forms)
wo m an	wo m en	[ʊ]	~	[ɪ]
go o se	ge e se	[u]	~	[i]
fo o t	fe e t	[ʊ]	~	[i]

(18) The usual pattern of past and past participle formation is to add an affix, but some verbs show an internal alternation:

ri n g	ra n g	ru n g	[ɪ] ~ [æ] ~ [ʌ]
dr i nk	dra n k	dr u nk
sw i m	swa m	swu m
fee d	fe d	fe d	[ɪ] ~ [ɛ] ~ [ɛ]
ho l d	he l d	he l d	[oʊ] ~ [ɛ] ~ [ɛ]
